The screenshot shows the Keep&Share website interface. A central white dialog box with a green border is overlaid on the page. The dialog box has a title "Welcome to Keep&Share" and a subtitle "To get started, answer these two quick questions:". It contains two numbered questions. Question 1 asks "Do you want to share your calendar with others?" with two radio button options: "I want to share publicly so that no login is required" and "I want the calendar for my own use or those I specifically choose". Question 2 asks "Which default calendar view do you want?" with four radio button options: "1 month", "1 week (column)", "5 days", and "2 weeks". Below the options for question 2 is a small thumbnail image of a calendar grid for May 2019. At the bottom of the dialog box is a green button labeled "Continue to Keep&Share". The background of the website is a greyish-blue. On the left, there is a sidebar with the user's name "Fred Smith" and a "Calendar" section. On the right, there is a calendar grid showing the days of the week and dates. The top of the page has a navigation bar with links like "Friends", "Invite a Friend", "Send Message", "Start Discussion", "Share", and "Customize".
